Collaborative/Joint degree | 4 years

Discover the world of art — and the art within you.

Two great institutions

Students from around the world enrol in this unique four-year program, which combines hands-on studio work at Sheridan with an Honours Bachelor of Arts degree in Art and Art History from the University of Toronto Mississauga (artandarthistory.ca). You'll attend both schools concurrently, studying the visual arts across societies and centuries while you develop an artistic identity of your own.

Art

At Sheridan, discover a range of personal approaches to visual expression. Begin studio work in your first semester, and complete problem-based assignments in six studios: drawing, painting, sculpture/installation, print media, design and photography. In upper-level studios, refine your expertise by developing a body of self-directed artwork in a class environment of discussion and exchange.

Art history

At UTM, take Art History courses that span from the ancient to the contemporary worlds. Learn different approaches to the analysis and interpretation of artefacts and understand the role of visual creativity in shaping cultures and communities. Additionally, learn about the history and methods of the discipline and have the opportunity to take courses in curatorial studies.

Career opportunities

This program provides a flexible base for a range of careers. Many graduates pursue teaching at the primary, secondary, or post-secondary level; others take graduate studies in studio art, art history, architecture, conservation, museum studies or other fields, leading to an MFA, MA or PhD. With its strong art history component, this program can lead to administrative, curatorial or teaching roles in museums and galleries, or work in art criticism and journalism. Graduates have also worked in commercial art, such as graphic design and photography.

Here are some jobs you might find:

- Visual Artist
- Professor of Studio Art, Art History or Theory
