Become a professional music theatre performer

Get theoretical and practical training in the core disciplines of acting, singing and dancing. Through a comprehensive and holistic approach, you'll have classes five days a week, with weekly private acting/singing tutorials. You'll develop professional practices and life skills that will help you become a highly skilled and knowledgeable professional performer.

Benefit from Sheridan's reputation for music theatre excellence

This remains the most sought-after music theatre program in Canada not just because of Sheridan's facilities and faculty, but also because of the individualized training that our students receive — even while learning in a highly collaborative and ensemble environment. The calibre of our graduates draws attention from audiences and performing arts industry recruiters.

Train in a forward- thinking and supportive community

To succeed in this industry, you must be able to respond to an ever-evolving field and maintain personal health and wellness in a rigorous and demanding professional environment. Sheridan's music theatre program is designed with all of this in mind. The curriculum also aims to amplify diverse voices and provide space for different learning perspectives and philosophies.
