Social Service Worker – Gerontology

Ontario College Diploma | 2 years
Davis Campus (Brampton) / Trafalgar Road Campus (Oakville)

Prepare for a career helping older Canadians enjoy a better life.

Learn social service work focused on an aging population

Social service workers who focus on gerontology are sought out by many organizations because of the growing senior population in Canada. This in-depth diploma answers society's needs by teaching the foundations of social service work, while training you to specialize in work with older adults.

Work with our faculty of community service professionals

Our faculty come from a wide range of community service roles, and includes social workers, community developers and gerontology specialists. Each professor brings their unique and valuable experience to every course, providing you with one-of-a-kind knowledge that only years in the field provides.

Get hands-on social service work experience in field practicums

In Semesters 2, 3 and 4 you'll work with seniors in a field practicum two days a week. This means valuable on-the-job experience and the chance to practically apply your class lessons. You'll support older adults in different settings, and also establish valuable career connections in the community.
